av St. Louis rescue workers used the "jaws of life" on Tuesday to free three badly injured men from their vehicle after a collision sent them careening off Hwy. 90 into a brick wall.

Bay St. Louis Police Chief Frank McNeil said yesterday that the accident occurred when the men were crossing Hwy. 90 from the north side of Second Street to the south side, when their car was struck on the passenger's side by a vehicle being driven in the east-bound lane of the highway. The driver of that vehicle was also injured. All four crash victims were transported to Hancock Medical Center for treatment. McNeil said neither the victim's names nor medical conditions have yet been released to the public.

Emergency workers responding to the scene included officers of the Bay St. Louis Police Department, Bay St. Louis Fire-Rescue, the Hancock County Sheriff's Department and American Medical Response.

The accident is still under investigation by Bay P.D. Officer Patricia DeNardo, McNeil said.

9 DuPont witnesses excluded from trial

Company says plaintiff trying to avoid experts

Sanctions imposed on DuPont DeLisle by Circuit Court Judge Billy J. Landrum yesterday for the alleged abuse of the Mississippi Rules of Civil Procedure will result in the plant losing key witnesses for the defense in their upcoming trial scheduled to be heard in Laurel next week. Nine key witnesses have been excluded from the first case with plaintiff Glen Strong and all other pending cases.

Plaintiff's attorneys filed a motion in early August asking the court to impose sanctions alleging that DuPont had consistently delayed discovery, including the violation of a clear court sanction to produce the above mentioned witnesses for deposition. Attorneys also alleged that the company used continued motions to force the case to federal court as a "delaying tactic." The court agreed.

Motions are scheduled to begin on Monday in the case that involves more than 2,000 local residents who allege that toxic emissions from the plant are responsible for their own and family members' illnesses. Gulfport attorney Kathleen Smiley and a team of attorneys will represent the plain-

Just a few years ago, a developer's suggestion of building a hotel at the site of the Reed Hotel nursing home on the corner of Ulman Ave. and Beach Blvd. brought a flurry of protest from neighbors. On August 31, the Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Board will review a proposal for a new project at the site, a six-to-seven-story, 112-unit condominium development.

An application for the project was filed at the building office on July 25 by Earl Hollingshead who is asking for a special exception to allow the facility on the R-1 and

PRCC to offer new aviation course at Stennis Int'l Airport

THE SEA COAST ECHO need people who are trained

Pearl River Community Collège's new Aviation Maintenance Technology program offered at Stennis International Airport in Hancock County. The new program, which received Federal Aviation Administration certification this week, is ready to start this fall.

"Ken Lancaster, the new instructor of the program, is responsible for getting this program approved by the FAA," said Don Welsh, Director of Career & Technical Education Programs. "It has taken a year to secure space at International Airport, purchase a plane, and transform a hangar into a federally approved classroom, but Ken did it."

The new PRCC Aviation Program is good for business, according to Programs The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, which serves as the economthe Port Bienville Industrial Maintenance. Park, and the Port Bienville Shortline Railroad.

Students become qualified to take the test for a Federal Aviation Administration Aviation Maintenance Technician license after completing the two-year program and earning a certificate of proficiency or an optional Associate of Applied Science. The program is limited to 15 students.

Bay-Waveland School Board awards drug-testing contract

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER Staff Writer

The Bay St. Louis School Board awarded a contract to CME out of Gulfport this week to conduct school wide drug testing for their new program slated to begin in the fall. Hal White is the owner of the company. The board approved the policy earlier this summer with little or no negative response on the proposal, said school superintendent Kim Stasny.

"The idea was very well received by parents and we are looking forward to getting started," she said.

The drug screening program, school officials have said, is a proactive approach to a drug-free school. It will provide for the health and safety of students, offer students a credible way to resist peer pressure to use drugs and alcohol, provide a resource for support and assistance for students who may be users, and help preserve the educational environmental atmosphere, officials sav.

Any student enrolled in grades 7-12 who is participating in an extracurricular CO-curricular activity, activity, or driving to school is subject to testing. Other students may also be included in the pool at the request of parents. Testing will be done on a random basis with a number assigned to each student in said. the testing pool.

Those who are against it obviously have never been subjected to the disgusting invasion of the boom cars or obnoxious neighbors.

How many of you have been awakened by a boom car, or a jake brake (engine braking system) on a diesel truck at 2 a.m.?

Wiseman contended that unless there is a free flow of public information from governmental agencies "you don't have a democracy."

Strangely, not long afterwards, MDHS director Taylor sent staff investigators to the MSU campus to probe the university's Early Childhood Institute, which receives a small part of its funding from MDHS. Directed for years by Dr. Cathy Grace, the MSU early childhood program has been hailed as a national model in its field.

Diamondhead POA meets

The Property Association Inc. (POA) met at 9 a.m. on Saturday, June 25 at the Community Center for the purpose of voting on changes to the Covenants and By Laws of the POA.

It was reported that one member asked to speak relative to the second item on the ballot relating to an Committee. Election Secretary Becky Jordan responded stating that there is an Election Chairperson who chooses assistants to help with administrative work. This position is usually held by the Secretary for the Board of Directors, but added that if that person is running for offices then they do not Election Chairperson in order to remove any conflict of inter-

The meeting adjourned until 2 p.m. in order for ballots to be collected and counted.

When the meeting reconvened at 2 p.m., Minutes of the previous Annual Meeting was read and accepted with copies handed out to those attending.

Regular business was then conducted, including proof of mailing/costs being presented and copies of the Financial Reports being distributed and explained.

It was announced that annual dues for the membership (property owners) were not to be increased at this time.

Members were notified that John Trimmer, through a bidding process, had been awarded a lease for the management of the Yacht Club, and a contract was being negotiated at the time of the meeting.

Also, it was announced that there is an ongoing energy study to see if electrical costs in and around Diamondhead can be reduced. Also a Focus Group is studying current pricing related to the Golf Club and Course in an effort to increase usage of these facilities.

The Board announced that three (3) lots currently in the inventory of the POA space" status and are withlots, leaving 78 lots remaining in the inventory. It was mentioned that some, if not all of these lots, might be converted to "green spaces" in the future and possibly could result in a reduction in taxes to the County, but that this would also mean a possible loss of income in the event these lots could be sold. A new Fine schedule for traffic violations and other Covenant violations is being prepared. In addition, during the Question/Answer portion of the meeting, the problem of speeding boaters on the waterways around Diamondhead was presented. Members were told that though new signs have been posted, Hancock County is charged with enforcement in this matter and, due to limited staff and money for enforcement, this is only being conducted on the three (3) major holidays of the year.

President Lloyd Ramirez said that quorum requirements were met regarding the ballots and that all items on the ballots passed. A new Covenant/By Laws It was also announced and Rules and Regulations and presented to the membership at a later date. The membership had

The membership, in have been given "green regards to several other written questions presentdrawn from the inventory of ed, was informed that twelve (12) trees are required to remain on lots being cleared for construction. But it was stated that the POA cannot dictate which trees and what specific sizes are to remain nor where they are to be located, though it was said the Architectural/Engineering office encourages retention of hardwoods and hopes that more trees will be left in front of residences. Approval does have to be given by the POA before any trees are removed.

Before the close of the meeting, a question was presented about boat trailers being left for extended periods in the area adjacent to the Yacht Club. It was stated that at this time there is no other place, other than driveways, for these boat trailers to be left and that it was felt that that solution would be worse than leaving them in the harbor area.

Diamondhead Lions Club golf tournament is Aug. 17

In 1925, Helen Keller Owners' Association memchallenged the Lions Clubs International to become her "Knights of the Blind" and join her in a "Crusade against the Darkness." Today, 80 years later and with a membership of approximately 1.4 million, Lions have established eye banks worldwide, funded research on leading causes of blindness, organized eve screenings for thousands of school children, collected millions of eyeglasses for recycling, and helped hundreds of thousands of visually impaired people develop the skills to live productive lives.

To carry on Helen Keller's "crusade against the darkness" locally, the Diamondhead Lions Club is sponsoring its 5th Annual Golf Tournament on Saturday, August 27 at the beautiful Diamondhead Golf Course.

The format is a four person mixed scramble with an yourself. 8 a.m. shotgun start. Checkin begins at 7 a.m.

Cost will be $30 for Diamondhead annual members, $50 for Property bers, $65 for the general public, and $35 for Jr. Golfers age 18 or under. Lunch at the Diamondhead Country Club after golf is included in the entry fee.

Prizes will be awarded to the top three finishing teams, plus four $50 prizes for "Closest to the Pin," a set of Callaway Irons for "Hole-In-One" at designated Par 3. and many Door Prizes.

For further information, or to obtain sign-up sheets, please contact Linda Mason at 255-8987 or John Sneddon at 255-4236.

Hole sponsorships at $50 each are available from Charles Mason at 255-8987 or Jim Beckham at 255-7728.

Come, roar with the Lions at their golf tournament, have fun, a great lunch, and know that while you are enjoying a beautiful outing, you are also helping someone less fortunate than

DuPont -- trial nears

Smiley said she was pleased that the judge had 'put his foot down."

"I think this sends a loud and clear message to DuPont to stop the stall tactics," she said. "They have stated publicly that they want to hurry up and get to court, but this order shows the opposite - that they have been stalling every chance they get. This has been a pattern in this case and nationally, an unfortunate occurrence that we have had to put up with." DuPont officials said yesterday that they disagree with the judge's actions.

"Our company is disappointed with the court's entry of this order and does not believe that it appropriately or fairly represents the factual history of DuPont in this or any other lawsuit," said public relations director Terry Gooding. "This is clearly an attempt by the plaintiff's lawyers to avoid facing real scientific experts who would easily disprove their false allegations. Our witnesses osition for several months, but the plaintiffs have chosen not to depose them.

"DuPont has offered to produce all but one of these witnesses during the period ordered by the court. Plaintiff arbitrarily rejected all of those dates. The one witness who could not appear during the period ordered by the court was participating in a study tour associated with the Zambia Copperbelt Environment project funded by the World Bank. We offered to produce him for deposition upon his return. DuPont will be filing petition with the Mississippi Supreme Court requesting it to reverse this erroneous ruling," Gooding concluded.

The case was originally scheduled to begin in April, but other cases that were first on the docket delayed the start. When the case did come up, jury selection was delayed when attorneys for the defense filed two motions to have the case sent back to federal court. They had previously filed a similar motion that was also denied. The federal court system is traditionally more favorable to court cases.

The case was sent back to state court twice, but by then the court term was only a week from ending, not enough time to continue the trial. It was rescheduled for August 17, the day when jury selection is expected to begin.

That moratorium does not exclude developers from filing applications at the building office, said city clerk Paula Fairconnetue. However it does prohibit any building permits from being issued for those projects during that six month period, she said.

Preliminary drawings rate a portion of the historic hotel building into the new condominiums. The old fover will be left in tact, Carrigee said.

The new building will be constructed of stucco, with some brick to match the old building, stone ornamentation and metal railings on balconies. A clay tile roof is shown on an elevator tower. A pool will be installed near the front of the property.

Messina & Raye to perform at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis

THE SEA COAST ECHO "Give A Damn's Busted," but her microphone isn't! Jo Dee Messina will perform with special guest Collin Raye when they perform at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis on Saturday, October 1 at 9 p.m. Tickets for this exciting one-night-only concert event start at just $24.95 and are available through the Casino Magic Box Office, by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or through any Ticketmaster outlet. Premium seating and hotel packages are also available.

Massachusetts native, Jo Dee Messina began her career as a recording artist with the release of her first album in 1996. Eight number one singles and numerous awards later, she shows no signs of slowing down. In fact, the first single from her latest album, Delicious Surpise, "My Give A Damn's Busted" is burning up the country charts.

Messina's double platinum albums have churned up a veritable storm of hits including: "Heads Carolina, Tails California" "You're Not In Kansas Anymore" "Bye Bye," "Lesson In Leavin'," "Stand Beside Me," and "Because You Love Me." Her song "Burn" also crossed over to become an AC hit and "Bring On The Rain," became an unforeseen balm for radio listeners in the hits. Blood drive set at Waveland K-Mart

THE SEA COAST ECHO When the American Red Cross called for help right away, Steve Howard, the Manager of the K-Wart store in Waveland answered the call. Due to critical shortages in the blood supply, the American Red Cross asked K-Mart to host a critical needs blood drive on Friday, August 12 from 1 - 5 p.m. on the Red Cross blood-

Waveland The blood drive is open to the community and all donors will receive a free tshirt as a thank you for helping ensure that all patients get the blood they need, when they need it. All blood types are needed, especially O donors.

mobile at the K-Mart on

Hwy. 90 and Hwy. 603 in

Currently, there is less than a one-day supply of types O Positive, Negative, B Negative, and AB Negative. Type O Negative, the Universal Donor, has only 2/10 of a day's supply in the region. Most other types are at just barely a day's supply.

Organizers are asking K-Mart employees and community blood donors in Hancock County to please give blood now. When supplies drop to such low levels, lives can be jeopardized by a lack of available blood. One traumatic accident, the complicated delivery of a baby, or an emergency surgery can literally wipe out the blood supply as it stands

"Blood supplies in our community are still reflecting critical shortages due to the typical summer slowdown in blood donations," commented Liz Gaulke, Account Manager, American Red Cross Blood Services.

"Now everyone is busy with back-to-school activities so blood collections are still lower than normal causing serious shortages that typically extend into mid-September," continued Liz Gaulke. "The only way to meet the needs of local patients is to schedule more blood drives and collect more blood."

Every two seconds, someone uses blood. Every pint of blood donated means that at least two patients may get another chance at life, that their families do not have to say good-bye yet and that a hospital won't have to tell a family that there is not enough blood donate blood now, please available right now to help their loved one.

From the time you donate blood until the time it is tested and sent back to a hospital to transfuse takes about three days. That's why the blood must be on the shelf before someone you care about needs it. To donate blood, you must be at least 17 years old, weigh at least 110 pounds, have not donated in the past 56 days and be in good health. Most medications will not prevent you from being a blood donor and restrictions on giving blood change frequently. Donors will be eligible to donate Friday, August 12 as long as they have not given blood since June 17. If you are not sure if you can call 1-800-GIVELIFE.

This year marks the 30th anniversary of testing the Shuttle Main Engines (SSMEs) at NASA's Stennis Space Center (SSC), which will culminate with an engine test August

Since the first test on May 19, 1975, the NASA/contractor team at SSC has conducted more than 2,200 tests on SSMEs, including the ones that helped propel Space Shuttle Discovery on STS-114, NASA's Return to Flight mission.

A total of 10 tests were conducted in the first two months to help establish fuel preburner, oxygen preburner and main combustion chamber ignition. Three years later, test teams at SSC were firing the Main Propulsion Test Article: the three-engine cluster that helps propel the Space Shuttle into orbit. On January 21, 2004, SSC celebrated 1 million seconds of successful SSME engine firings, both in testing and flight operations. This milestone is a testament to the employees and to the engine itself, which has never experienced a major anomaly.

"The unmatched reliability and durability of the SSME serves as an enorthat have manufactured converted three decades," said Ronnie Rigney, SSME Project Manager at SSC. "They've done an extraordinary job."

With a rumble and a rush of water vapor, the Space Shuttle's Main Engine (SSME) reached a historic milestone July 16, 2004, when a successful flight acceptance test was conducted at NASA Stennis Space Center (SSC). The engine tested was the first complete engine to be tested and shipped in its entirety to Kennedy Space Center, Florida, for installation on Space Shuttle Discovery for STS-114, NASA's Return to Flight mission. STS-114 launched July 26 and landed Aug. 9. The July 2004 engine test ran for 520 seconds (8∏ minutes), the length of time it takes for the Space Shuttle to reach orbit. All SSMEs are tested and proven flight-worthy at SSC near Bay St. Louis.

There have been 114 missions since the first Space Shuttle took flight from Kennedy Space Center (KSC) on April 12, 1981, all powered by SSMEs tested at SSC.

The engines are tested on the A-1 and A-2 Test Stands which were built in the 1960s to test the first and second stages of the Apollo Saturn V rocket that safely mous credit to the transported Americans to Instruments are added, and NASA/contractor teams the Moon. The engines are assembled at KSC in Florida and shipped to SSC for testing. After passing flight acceptance tests, they are weighed and subjected to a formal acceptance review, then shipped back to KSC for installation on a Space Shuttle Orbiter. The result is a safe, strong, reliable engine, thoroughly tested at SSC for the last 30 years.

"What's amazing is that 30 years of knowledge has been passed on without a gap in important informa-Miguel \mathbf{said} tion," Rodriguez, Propulsion Test Director.

"Most processes suffer through a knowledge gap over this many years. Because this program has been continuously maintained, others have had the opportunity to learn from people like Pat Mooney or Al Lenz of the SSME test world, carrying on the 30 years of knowledge developed over the entire period. Indeed, a very unique situation."

After a Shuttle mission, the engines receive postflight inspections and maintenance at KSC, and then may be shipped back to SSC for a pre-flight acceptance test prior to use on another mission.

The Space Shuttle's Return to Flight begins the journey to finish construction of the International Space Station, return to the Moon and go on to explore Mars and the solar system. Discoveries from these explorations will continue to advance scientific knowledge as well as lead to the perature in the Main Park, CA, manufactures the development of new, everyday technologies.

Onlookers take in an early static test-firing of a Space Shuttle Main Engine from atop the Test Control Center at NASA's Stennis Space Center (SSC), then called the National Space Technology Laboratories. SSC conducted the first SSME test on May 19, 1975. Since then, SSC has performed more than 2,200 tests on SSMEs, including the ones that helped propel Space Shuttle Discovery on STS-114, NASA's Return to Flight. STS-114 launched July 26 and landed Aug. 9. This year marks the 30th anniversary of SSME testing at SSC, which will culminate with an engine test on August 11. All SSMEs are tested and proven flight-worthy at SSC near Bay St. Louis.

Second Saturday Art Walks. The Art Walk this Saturday features potter Milton LeBlanc of Long Beach. Two years ago, LeBlanc attended an art association meeting in Gulfport and met a well known Coast potter. After watching the potter demonstrating the pottery wheel technique, LeBlanc was hooked and started taking pottery lessons. "I like using my hands to create something basically from a pile of mud," said LeBlanc. "I prefer making functional pieces but also enjoy the decorative aspect of pottery - using hand tools to carve designs into the clay before it is fired in the double walled vase or vessel which he describes as "a piece within a piece" done during one wheel throw. He also mixes his own glazes and has been experimenting using one glaze over another resulting in unusual colors and patterns. The signature piece of this show is a result of this technique. "Black Plum" is a large doubled walled vase glazed first

Her favorite mediums are oils, pastels, and her original medium, pen and ink. Though she cannot find the time right now to produce works in enough quantity to sell them in local galleries, she says, she hopes to do so at some point. For now, she produces her works of art by order for individuals.

Recently, one of her "orders" included a building size mural for a local restaurant. She has also produced murals for a country club, a children's clothing store, and in several homes. The Knights of Columbus commissioned her to create a large billboard of the Nativity for the St. Joan of Arch Church for Christmas display. Karen has also created logos for Shell Oil and others. A recently commissioned painting of Our Lady of the Gulf Church stands on an easel.

When asked to draw a self portrait, one adult student drew only points for eyes, a crude nose and a set of lips. A drawing of her hand yielded just pointed sticks. Karen said that at first she thought she had met the person who would prove her beliefs wrong. But before long, the woman was producing paintings that even she did not believe she had done.

"She would leave the work and come back and ask me if I had worked on it," said Karen. "She could-Students begin with n't believe her own progress.'

> "It is a matter of letting go of the way you usually see things, with the left side, or intellectual side of your brain," said Karen. "You have to let go and begin to see things with the right side, the creative side."

> To help people accomplish this, Karen uses various exercises, such as turning a picture upside down, forcing the student to view it in a non-traditional way. "You begin to see that a shadow or a line are objects themselves-you begin to see the parts that make up the whole, something that comes naturally to some people," she said.

"Sometimes students have a hard time deciding where to start a painting so I teach them to look to nature and creation," Karen said. "Begin with the sky, then the earth and the horizon line separating the two. Next they add trees, grass, animals or people. Trees and grass grow from the earth so I tell my students to paint them the way they grow."

"The most important thing is to see in a different way, and once you do it will spread to other areas of your life. A glass will never again be just a glass but a reflection of all that you see in the glass. You could even be a part of that reflection."

Karen is a member of The Arts Hancock County.

Bay, HHS & OLA serve it up in 2005; Bay & OLA win 1st games

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II Staff Writer

The athletic season has officially begun with high Bay High opened on school volleyball being the first sport out of the starting gate for the 2005-06 school year.

The Bay High Lady Tigers, Hancock Lady Hawks and the Our Lady Academy Crescents have been hard at it since the first day of practice allowed by the MHSAA on July 25th.

The Lady Tigers are the defending state champions and lost just one senior to graduation. OLA lost to Bay High in the South State championship match in 2004 also lost just one senior. Hancock returns four seasoned players from last year's squad.

With the Lady Tigers losing just one senior off their state title team, one cannot overlook them as one of the top teams in 2005.

Bay High has a new mentor in Gina Pepperman and return two seniors in Hannah Johnson and Destiny Flood. Some other familiar names returning to the court are Tamara Reed, Lindsey Trotter and Leanne Williams. Pepperman stated, "The team is eager to learn. We have a lot of new faces this year on the team. We have 11 varsity members on the team this year. Our diversity on the team will be a key for our success. We are excited about the season that is upon us and eager to get started."

The Bay High Lady Tigers opened their season on Friday, August 5th with a classic game at St. Martin. The Lady Tigers tallied wins over both St. Martin available.

The regular season for Tuesday, August 9th with agame against Long Beach. Bay High's first home game is scheduled for August 18th against Biloxi.

The Hancock Lady Hawks lost a few experienced players to graduation but return a handful of seasoned veterans such as Katrina Zahniser, Celeste Plaisance, Hillary Pagano and Mollie Nunez. The Lady Hawks have been to the state playoffs the last two seasons.

The Lady Hawks also have a new head coach roaming the sidelines in Amie Stennett but she is not new to the program. Stennett is in her third year working with the Lady Hawks' volleyball squad.

Stennett commented, "This is my third year with the program and we are learning together. There are some older players here to help guide the younger members. We want to develan attack here at Hancock so we are working on specific skills with playat each position. ers Communication is another aspect of our game that needs to improve for us to be successful. We are looking forward to the upcoming season."

The Lady Hawks open their home schedule with a game on Thursday, August 11th against Mercy Cross.

The Our Lady Academy Crescents are similar to Bay High in what they return to the court in 2005. there are five of six starters coming back and 12 letter winners. As far as experience goes, and Oak Grove; however, OLA returns the most of scoring results were not any of the area schools. They suit up eight seniors in Lindsay Benvenutti, Rachel Cuevas, Lakasia Ducksworth, Katherine Giardino, > Guichet, Sarah Loiacano, Lauren Renz, and Kaylee Schmitt. Other returning letter winners are Amanda Meyers, Margaret Rittiner, Victoria Romano and Shelly Reboul. The Crescents won their fifth consecutive division title last year before falling in the South State title game to Bay High. OLA won back-to-back state titles in 2002 and 2003. 4

OLA head coach Mike Meyers stated, "We have a lot of experience coming back. The experience and depth will be a key factor for us during the season. We return several top offensive performers from last year in Shelly Reboul, Kaylee Schmitt, Lauren Renz and Rachel Cuevas." Bay High and OLA compete in, virtually, the same divison as last year with Pass Christian and Mercy Cross. This year, Sacred Heart of Hattiesburg is added to the division membership. Hancock competes in a division along with Hattiesburg and Oak Grove.

Last year the MHSAA decided to go to a rally scoring system in which each game is scored to 25 points and the match is decided in a best three-out-of five game format.

The MHSAA will again throw a new wrinkle into the system with the introduction of a defensive spe-This specialist cialist. remains on the backline and is allowed to only dig and move to the front line or games begin at 6 p.m.

participate in serves. This move is a continuation in the attempt to align high school volleyball Annie Mississippi with the collegiate game.

> On Tuesday, August 9th OLA (1-0) defeated Ocean Springs 25-17; 25-12 and 25-18 to win their first match of the season. OLA head coach Mike Meyers stated, "It was a rough start. We looked rugged in spots and didn't move well. Throughout the match, we passed the ball poorly. That forced too many back row balls instead of opportunities at the net. However, when we did get our shots at the net Kaylee Schmitt, Rachel Cuevas and Annie Giardino hit the ball well. We have a lot of work to do to get better." Amanda Meyers and Lakasia Ducksworth led OLA in points with each while Shelly Reboul led the way with 12 assists. Schmitt was tops in kills with 11 followed by Cuevas with 10.

The OLA junior varsity disposed of Ocean Springs 25-5 and 25-12. Jaime Reisch led the team with 9 points followed by Emily Hall with 8 points. Hall and Katherine Lobrano each had 4 kills while Lizzy Milner added 4 assists.

The Bay High Lady Tigers hit the road on Tuesday night and traveled to Long Beach. Scoring results were not available at press time.

The Crescents and Hancock will both be at home on Thursday against Vancleave and Mercy Cross, respectively. Bay High stays on the road for an pass. The specialist cannot away game at Gautier. All
